Health and safety statistics for the construction sector in Great Britain

80,000 workers suffering from work-related ill health each year (LFS)
30 fatal injuries to workers in 2016/17 (RIDDOR)
64,000 non-fatal injuries to workers each year (LFS)

800 new retail and leisure opportunities and temporary jobs in the construction industry. Fatal injuries to workers Headline Figures A total of 137 workers were killed at work in Great Britain in 2016/17p. Although this represents a reduction of 10 fatalities from 2015/16, it is possible that this change can be explained by natural variation in the figures. It is the second lowest year on record after 2013/14. However, in statistical terms the number of fatalities has remained broadly level in recent years – the average annual number of workers killed at work over the five years 2012/13-2016/17p is 142.

Almost 32,000 new construction jobs expected in the South West

31,850 additional construction jobs are set to be created in the South West in the next five years, according to new research released today by CITB.

Fuelled by demand for 245,000 new homes across the UK each year, CITB’s Construction Skills Network (CSN) forecast shows that average output for private housing in the South West will grow 5.1% annually to 2018.

Along with infrastructure, at 21%, housing is the chief driver of growth for the region. Between now and 2018, the South West as a whole will see average annual output grow 3.5% - the highest of any UK region - ahead of the national average of 2.2%.

A £32.6m luxury retirement development has been approved for construction in Salisbury.

Retirement housing specialist McCarthy & Stone is planning a development of 85 owner-occupied apartments in the town, following the resolution to grant planning consent by Wiltshire Council.

The development will occupy the site of the former Aviva offices in Castle Street, in Salisbury city centre. The former Aviva offices have been vacant since their closure in October 2016 and will be rebuilt to make way for the new development.

The site is currently being prepared for construction, which is due to start in early to mid-2018.
